2 More Phantom Computer Takes Over Jets Shot Down

Washington dispatches Thursday reported the Cost of Living Council is lifting price controls from rental property and small businesses in general. As a part of Phase 2 this action was not unexpected, the Internal Revenue Service having previously asserted it was physically impossible to police, for instance, prices and wages in the communication business—comprising thousands of newspapers, radio and television stations.

The Star all along has contended that price & wage controls did not work in wartime, and were an impossibility in peacetime—a position backed up by all reputable economists. But President Nixon's action last August served one good purpose: It jolted the public into facing an inflation that now puts our American dollar in dire danger.

But the idea of a blanket order affecting all business was ridiculous. Small businesses are at the bottom of the economic pile, while the initial trouble lay with Big Business, Big Labor, and Government itself.

Union wage hikes in the big metal industries had already gone through before government issued its freeze order on all business last August. Obviously many small outfits would be hurt if denied hikes to repair their own financial position.

The Star was one such. We got hurt last Fall, but went along with Phase 1 just to see what would happen next. Then on Jan. 3 the Internal Revenue Service revoked its previous warning and said The Star could collect an advertising rate increase announced by letter last July and originally to be effective Sept. 1.

There will also have to be an adjustment in subscription prices, probably about May. Newsprint, the coarse white paper we print on, advanced $7 a ton last April 1, and a new increase of $5 a ton will make the carload delivered price in Hope $163 Feb. 1, up from $151—an increase of $12 a ton in 10 months.

Time was when we judged how our business was doing by the number of subscriptions and the number of advertising columns inches we sold. But for the last decade it has been a rat race of price hikes instead of unit sales—and newspaper people are just as tired of it as you are.

Somewhere there will be a leveling-off point—let's hope it comes during 1972.

Would Investigate Causes of War

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer
Attacking the "present crop of Democratic hopefuls" for their past positions on Vietnam, the chairman of the Republican National Committee has proposed a bipartisan congressional committee to investigate the causes and conduct of the war.

"The American people have had enough rumors, enough leaks, enough 'inside stories,' enough lies," Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas said today. "The American people want the truth. It is time the Congress showed them the respect they deserve and give them the truth."

Dole said in remarks prepared for the professional staff conference in Washington for Republican campaign leaders that he will propose a resolution for a special committee to find out the truth about the war.

"As American troop strength in Vietnam grew and grew through the mid-60s, today's critics of the war were loyally supporting the policies of the war party," Dole said, naming Democratic Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

McGovern, Muskie and Humphrey are campaigning for presidency. Kennedy has said he is not a candidate.

"Self-righteous denunciations are not going to make anyone regret that McGovern and

SAIGON (AP) — The United States lost its 13th and 14th planes since the mid-December stepup in the Indochina air war when North Vietnamese gunners shot down two Air Force F4 Phantom jets Thursday over Laos.

The two crewmen of each plane were rescued, the U.S. Command said. The supersonic fighter-bombers were the first reported lost to the enemy's strengthened anti-aircraft defenses in Laos this year.

The command said one of the Phantoms was bombing along the border just west of Khe Sanh when it was hit by enemy ground fire and crashed. The two crewmen ejected and were rescued within 30 minutes.

The other Phantom was hit about the same time while on a scouting mission over the Plain of Jars some 250 miles to the north, the command said.

Air Force B52s flew their fifth day of intensive raids along the western side of South Vietnam's central highlands where a North Vietnamese buildup has given rise to speculation that another major enemy offensive is coming next month.

The U.S. Command said a troop of U.S. air cavalry and part of an artillery battery had been moved to Pleiku, in the highlands, to replace part of a withdrawing American infantry battalion that had been on security duty there.

The U.S. Command also reported the loss of a small observation helicopter to enemy ground fire 29 miles southwest of Hue, and said two crewmen were wounded. It was the second helicopter lost in that area in two days.

A U.S. helicopter base at Phu Loi, 10 miles north of Saigon, was hit by three enemy rockets that caused light damage and no casualties, the command said. The South Vietnamese command reported 16 enemy shellings and other attacks in the past 24 hours, somewhat less than the average of more than 20 a day for the previous 10 days.

South Vietnamese military sources reported 34 enemy killed and six captured in scattered action, with government casualties of five killed and 15 wounded. A 15,000-man task force operating in rubber plantation country northwest of Saigon reported only a handful of contacts in which seven of the enemy and four government troops were killed.

This marks the official end of 6½ years of combat service in Vietnam for the 101st, which took part in some of the war's best known campaigns.

Who Really Got Money for the Hughes Book?

NEW YORK (AP) — McGraw-Hill, Inc., and Life magazine say they will defer publication of a purported autobiography of Howard Hughes pending an investigation of a Swiss bank account in the name of a billionaire's name.

Both publishing firms emphasized in a joint statement Thursday that "we continue to believe that the material we have contains the authentic language and words of Howard Hughes."

But they said an investigation "has just developed questions concerning the holder of the bank account at the Swiss Credit Bank in Zurich in which checks made out to H. R. Hughes were endorsed and deposited."

Author Clifford Irving has insisted that Hughes collaborated on the book in a series of secret meetings with him, and McGraw-Hill says it paid

Hughes about $750,000 for the material.

But in a long-distance telephone news conference Jan. 7, a voice identified as that of Hughes denied that he had ever met Irving or that he had received any money for the work.

A Nevada publishing company which claims it has exclusive rights to Hughes' life story, has sued in state Supreme Court seeking to block publication of the McGraw-Hill book and Life articles.

Life had planned to start its three-part series in the Feb. 11 issue. McGraw-Hill's publication date was set for March 10. "Until we have obtained information that is completely satisfactory to us, both McGraw-Hill and Life are holding in abeyance action on the publication of the Howard Hughes manuscript," their statement said.

Nixon Didn't Have to Wait for Criticism

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's hopes for avoiding Democratic criticism of his State of the Union message lasted about as long as it took Edmund S. Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey to reach the television cameras.

And Democrats were to take to the airwaves today with an hour-long live television-radio response featuring questions phoned in by listeners around the country.

The prompt response to Nixon's State of the Union message, delivered Thursday, served to underscore the fact that this is a presidential-election year and that Nixon himself is a declared candidate for a second term.

Republican reaction was generally favorable, but even a few GOP members of Congress black vote after McGovern accused Lindsay of ignoring party guidelines on campaign spending. The state's presidential primary is March 14.

Charles Evers, mayor of Fayette, Miss., was on hand to support Lindsay and was scheduled to give his endorsement to Lindsay during a rally at predominantly black Florida A&M University in Tallahassee.

While progress has been re-registered complaints. Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, called the speech a "depressing blend of liberal utopianism in domestic policy and continued apathy concerning our deteriorating national security."

Ashbrook, who is opposing Nixon in the New Hampshire presidential primary, said the speech had widened the split between Nixon and conservative Republicans.

Muskie called the half-hour address "an empty speech." Humphrey said it created "a major confrontation with the leaders of Congress" and is unlikely to bring favorable action on the President's stalled legislative program.

In the major new note of his speech, Nixon pledged to unveil later this year what he termed a revolutionary plan to ease the reliance on property taxes to finance public education. This

Deadlier Missile Subs Ordered

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's order to speed development of a new generation of deadlier, missile-firing submarines appears aimed at keeping the upper hand while prodding the Soviet Union to ward an undersea-weapons-curb agreement.

"Even as we seek with the greatest urgency stable controls on armaments, we cannot ignore the fact that others are going forward with major increases in their own programs," Nixon said in his State of the Union address Thursday.

It was a clear signal to the Soviets that the United States is prepared to build a new undersea-launched missile system (ULMS) unless a satisfactory agreement is worked out in the strategic arms limitation talks in Vienna.

The new defense budget, due to go to Congress Monday, requests more than $900 million to improve the U.S. sea-based deterrent force, Nixon said.

Pentagon sources said most of it will go for ULMS—a nine-fold increase over last year's spending. A fleet of these weapons ultimately would cost more than $15 billion.

ULMS involves development of both a new type submarine and a new missile with a range of about 6,000 miles, about twice the reach of present U.S. Polaris and Poseidon missiles.

As to line with Nixon's goal "to improve and protect, to diversify and disperse our strategic forces," are budget requests for converting 31 of the 41 Polaris submarines to the multiwarhead Poseidon missile, replacing older land-based missiles with the triple-warhead Minuteman III and deploying the Safeguard antimissile system.

All this, Nixon said, will mean a bigger defense budget in fiscal 1973. The President gave no figure, but it is expected to total nearly $80 billion, up about $4 billion over last year's military requests.

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP) — Ricky L. Tribble, 23, of Walnut Ridge was killed Thursday night in a seven-vehicle accident four miles north of here on U.S. 67. Three other persons were injured in the crash.

Officers said the chain-reaction crash occurred during heavy fog and rain.

ported in efforts to limit U.S. and Soviet antiballistic missile systems and land-based offensive missiles, SALT negotiators are said to be deadlocked over Moscow's refusal to restrict undersea missiles.

The Soviets are now only beginning to catch up in the number of missile-firing submarines. The prospect of a new weapon like ULMS in the U.S. arsenal could put Moscow at an even greater disadvantage.

GNP Report Shows Inflation Slowed Living Cost Surges

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living surged four-tenths of one per cent last month after the price freeze eased, the government said today, but December's increase still left 1971 with the best inflation record in four years.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said almost two-thirds of last month's jump was due to a 1.1 per cent increase in food prices, highlighted by a big 5.6 per cent jump in the cost of fresh fruits and vegetables.

For all of 1971 the cost of living rose 3.4 per cent, lowest since a 3.0 per cent increase in 1967. Intervening increases were 4.7 per cent in 1968, 6.1 per cent in 1969, and 5.5 per cent in 1970.

The four-tenths of one per cent December jump was twice the largest increase for any month during the August 15-November 14 price freeze. The administration has long predicted a "bulge" in prices would show up because strict freeze controls became more flexible in the second phase of President

Nixon's economic stabilization program.

The increase for December was the same whether figured on an unadjusted basis or adjusted to compensate for normal seasonal variations.

It included besides the 1.1 per cent increase in food prices, a three-tenths of one per cent increase in the cost of housing and a two-tenths of one per cent increase for health and recreation. There were some declines. Apparel and upkeep dipped one-tenth of one per cent and transportation fell two-tenths of one per cent.

During the Price Freeze the Consumer Price Index advanced one-tenth of one per cent in September and two-tenths of one per cent in both October and November.

The government said that in the four months since President Nixon announced the price freeze the cost of living has risen at a yearly rate, seasonally adjusted, of 2.4 per cent. This compares with a 4.1 per cent rate for the six preceding months.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pace of the nation's economy quickened in the final three months of 1971, growing at a snappy 6.1 per cent rate while inflation slowed to a crawl, the Commerce Department said today in a report of national output.

Despite the sharp pickup in growth, however, the economy turned in a disappointing performance for all of 1971. It grew at an average of 2.7 per cent for the year, well below the rate needed to trim unemployment.

But the fourth-quarter gain in Gross National Product output of the nation's goods and services, gave the Nixon administration new hope that the economy has moved out of the doldrums, ready for a strong 1972 advance.

The 6.1 per cent increase in "real GNP," output measured in terms of 1968 non-inflated dollars, was coupled with a marked deceleration in the rate of inflation, partly reflecting President Nixon's moves to control wages and prices.

Promises Taxpayer's Relief

By EDMOND L. BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's promise to propose school-financing methods to relieve property-taxpayers has revived speculation that he may seek the value-added levy, a form of national sales tax.

Nixon made no mention Thursday of the value-added tax—or any specific tax—in that portion of his State of the Union message devoted to school financing.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said later that the White House has "a positive view" on value-added, but Nixon has not decided on that tax as the answer.

Regardless, comment from Congress indicates little chance such a tax would be voted this year.

The tax, widely used in Europe, is applied at each stage of production and marketing of a product. The tax is based on the value added to the product at each stage. Most economists agree that the consumer ultimately pays the whole tax.

Nixon said that later this year, after receiving reports from his Commission on School Finance and the Advisory Council on Intergovernmental Relations, "I shall make my final recommendations for relieving the burden of property taxes and providing both fair and adequate financing for our children's education."

Nixon said the cost of education has risen to such an extent that "financial crisis has become a way of life in many school districts.

"The brunt of the growing pressures has fallen on the property tax—one of the most inequitable and regressive of all public levies. Property taxes ... have more than doubled in the past decade and have been particularly burdensome for our lower- and middle-income families and for older Americans."

Recent decisions in several state courts that school financing through local property taxes is discriminatory and unconstitutional add to the urgency, Nixon continued.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee took Nixon's remarks as a "suggestion of a value-added tax" and said he is not enthusiastic.

"However, I will reserve judgment on that matter," Long said in a statement. "If the House does not send us one, I can predict with some confidence that it will not be added by the Senate."

Both the Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee, where tax legislation originates, have jammed schedules for 1972.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, in the past has expressed coolness toward the value-added tax.

Some business groups have favored the tax as a partial replacement for the corporate income tax, arguing that this, too, is in effect passed on to the consumer.

However, labor and consumer groups could be expected to oppose the tax as a regressive levy—one hitting low incomes relatively harder than those that provide a large margin over obligatory spending.

Flu Claims 1,000

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The National Center for Disease Control says Hong Kong flu has claimed nearly a thousand lives this year, especially among the elderly and chronically ill.

In its report for the week ending Jan. 15, the center said Thursday 843 deaths were attributed to either influenza or pneumonia, 268 deaths higher than normal.

There were confirmed regional outbreaks of the flu in 15 states, isolated outbreaks in 14 states and respiratory illnesses not yet confirmed as the Hong Kong variety in 10 states, the report said.

The Hong Kong-type flu struck many areas of the United States in 1968-69, killing 27,900 persons. The CDC said most were elderly, the ones who suffer most from influenza.

The center said widespread outbreaks have been reported this month in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Nebraska, Delaware and Colorado.

Regional outbreaks have been reported in New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Minnesota, Kansas, Iowa, South Dakota, Maryland, North Carolina, Texas, Louisiana, Idaho, Montana and Oregon.

2 Accidents Investigated

Two accidents were investigated by City Police in the past 24 hours. The first occurred Thursday at Elm and Third. Two wheels of a boxcar had jumped the track at Ritchie Grocery Co. and Police were directing traffic.

A car driven by Sim Walker of Washington saw the police car and stopped suddenly. A second car driven by Richard White of Hope ran into the back of Walker's car. White told police he hit the gas instead of the brake. There was little damage and no charge by Officer Joe McCulley.

Friday at Avenue B and Elm cars driven by Mrs. Sally Andrews and Mrs. Margaret E. Crain collided with minor damage resulting. Officer McCulley investigated.

Settle Down to Life Without Phosphates

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — After three weeks of bootlegging, illegal sales by some merchants and general confusion, Dade County housewives apparently have settled down to life without the phosphate detergents which dirty up waterways while cleaning clothes.

A county law outlawing the water-polluting phosphates went into effect in a metropolitan area of 1.3 million population Jan. 1.

Shelves in detergent sections of some stores were almost bare for two weeks as stocks dwindled.

Many housewives made a run on stores in adjacent Broward County to buy their favorite phosphate brands. "It was unreal," said the manager of one chain store. "They bought the stuff by the case."

Then phosphate-free brands began to hit the market in volume. The manager of a Publix supermarket said the women seem to be accepting the new products "and we've had only a few minor complaints."

Marie Cox, one of the housewives who led the fight to do away with phosphates, blamed the confusion and temporary shortages on the major detergent producers.

"In my opinion, the merchants expected an 11th hour delay in enforcement of the law. The majors were telling them, 'Wait, don't do anything. We may be able to get rid of this law,'" Mrs. Cox said.

Consumer stockpiling in advance of the deadline also contributed to empty shelves. Some were almost bare of cleaning products as early as Christmas.

The law bans not only sale and distribution but use of the phosphates. "The women using these products are subject to fines of $500 a day or 60 days in jail," said Peter Baljet, the county's chief pollution control officer.

Baljet said he had sent letters of violation to several stores, mostly small independents which had continued to sell phosphate detergents, and the next step would be prosecution. "More and more nonphosphate products are coming into the market," Baljet said. "The situation is settling down. I haven't received any complaints from women, even when I appeared on a radio talk show which invited telephone calls."

John Williams, floor sales coordinator in a Sears store, said sales of that company's no-phosphate detergent were booming.

Several food chains offered their house brands and reported them selling well.

Cheating Cadets Leaving AF

By CARL HILLIARD
Associated Press Writer
AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — U.S. Air Force Academy officials say they expect many more resignations in addition to the 16 cadets who have already quit in a probe of academic cheating and other violations of the school's honor code.

Lt. Gen. Albert P. Clark, academy superintendent, said Thursday night the cadets themselves are conducting the investigation and are checking a list of about 75 names, of which 23 are seriously implicated.

"All of these cases where the honor violations are confirmed will result in resignations," Clark said.

The latest investigation is the third involving cheating at the 3,900-student Air Academy since 1965.

Clark said most violations involved "academic cheating, with one or two cases of stealing from fellow cadets."

He said the form of cheating involved "sharing information of a written examination in advance of the examination, so that the cadet who gave the information and he who received it are both guilty in violation of the code."

The academy superintendent said many of those implicated are accused of knowing about cheating and failing to report it.

Clark and Brig. Gen. Walter T. Galligan, commandant of cadets, agreed there would be more resignations, but they refused to speculate what the final number might be. Those resigning from the academy are given honorable discharges, Clark said.

The honor code reads: "We will not lie, steal or cheat, nor tolerate among us anyone who does."

Names of the implicated cadets will not be released, Clark said.

Clark and Galligan said the investigation started Wednesday night when a cadet under surveillance for "suspicion" of petty theft was confronted by cadet members of the honor committee.

Galligan said the cadet broke down and indicated his case was only "a piece of the action." He resigned, Clark said.

"I would be a great deal more worried if this (the violations) did not surface," Clark said. "The cadets themselves have discovered these cases and are conducting the investigation. They are living under their own standards."

The 13-year-old academy underwent its first major cheating probe in 1965, when 109 cadets resigned as a result of involvement in the theft, sale and improper use of examination papers. In 1967 another 46 resigned for either exchanging information on exams or for having knowledge of the cheating but not reporting it.

Little Rock (AP) — William L. "Sonny" Walker of Little Rock said Thursday he had been contacted about the possibility of filling the position of southwest regional director of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity.

Walker is director of the Equal Opportunity Division of the federal Housing and Urban Development Office in Little Rock. The regional director's position is based in Atlanta, Ga.

Walker said he had not decided yet whether he wanted the job.

An OEO spokesman in Washington said Thursday that Walker was one of several persons being considered for the job.

flation rose by only 1.5 percent, the lowest quarterly rate since the third quarter of 1965, the department said. That compared with a 2.5 percent rate in the third quarter and a 4.6 percent average rate for all of 1971.

It was during the middle of the quarter that Nixon's wage-price freeze moved into the less stringent Phase 2, in which wages and prices were allowed to go up within certain limits. The GNP figures are also subject to substantial later revisions, and all the figures could be affected.

Defense in Challenge

HICAGO (AP) — Defense lawyers have challenged the appointment of a trial judge to hear the case against former Gov. Otto Kerner and four others.

Kerner, a judge on leave from the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and his codefendants all entered pleas of innocent Thursday to charges of conspiracy to commit mail fraud and bribery in connection with race-track stock transactions during Kerner's administration.

The arraignment was held before U.S. District Court Judge Richard Austin, who acted in behalf of Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn. Taylor was picked as the trial judge for the Kerner case by Chief Justice Warren Burger.

The defense claimed Taylor's selection was illegal, and they presented a motion to Judge James Parsons, also in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

Nixon Proposal Would End the Dock Strike

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon announces a legislative proposal today aimed at halting the costly West Coast dock strike.

Nixon emphasized his concern about the dock walkout by adding two sentences to his State of the Union Address Thursday.

He urged prompt enactment of a long-pending administration bill designed to avert major transportation tieups and added:

"The West Coast dock strike is a case in point. This nation cannot and will not tolerate that kind of irresponsible labor tieups in the future."

Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Act for the first time last October to suspend for 90 days a walkout by members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union against the Pacific Maritime Association.

Although the injunction expired Christmas Day, renewed negotiations held off resumption of the statement until Monday.

The President and Mrs. Nixon flew to their Florida retreat Thursday night after a black tie dinner at the White House celebrating the end of his third year in office. All present and former Cabinet members and top presidential aides were invited.

Preceding the President to Key Biscayne was Laurence Silberman, under secretary of labor.

Draft Lottery Set for February 27

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The draft lottery for the two million young men turning 19 this year will be held Feb. 2, earlier than any of the three previous drawings, the Selective Service announced today.

Since none of the men may be drafted before next year, they will have 11 months' notice to consider their chances of being drafted if classified 1A.

Men, even with low numbers, are expected to have less of a chance of being called than men in recent years.

In his State of the Union message Thursday, President Nixon said draft calls will be significantly lower this year than in 1971, when they fell below 100,000—the lowest level since 1962.

Draft calls were as high as 382,000 a year at the peak of the Vietnam war.

Unless deferred or exempted, men turning 19 this year will face the draft in 1973. Those who are deferred would normally face the draft when they lose their deferments, up to age 26.

The lottery will involve drawing from two drums. The first drum will contain all the dates of the year, the second will contain numbers 1 to 366.

A birthdate capsule and a number capsule will be drawn simultaneously from each drum to match a random sequence number with each birthdate in the year.

The drums will be loaded Jan. 31 then locked and sealed until the day of the drawing. The drums will be rotated 10 minutes before the drawing.

The capsules will be picked by six young people. And neutral observers will verify the whole procedure.

Summer-Like Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Summer-like weather will continue throughout this weekend in Arkansas, but the National Weather Service says, temperatures will be a bit cooler than the record highs of recent days. Considerable cloudiness and scattered showers are expected to continue through tonight. It will be cooler across the north and central sections of the state as a cold front from the north drops into Arkansas.

The lows tonight will fall to the 30s north and range to the low 50s in the south.

The highs Thursday ranged from 68 at Memphis to 75 at Little Rock.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 42; Harrison, 40; Jonesboro, 41; Pine Bluff, 54; Texarkana, 61; El Dorado, 56; Memphis, 51; Little Rock, 53; and Fort Smith, 47.

Precipitation recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a.m. today included a trace at Fayetteville; .14 inches at Harrison; a trace at Jonesboro; .01 at Pine Bluff; a trace at El Dorado; .44 at Memphis and .07 at Little Rock.

Playboy Girl Hit With Egg

LONDON (AP) — Marilyn Cole, who posed for the first full frontal nude in the British edition of Playboy magazine, was autographing the magazine illustration in a London store Thursday, when a bald-headed, 50-year-old man shouted, "It's terrible—and you English!" Then he threw an egg.

"It was the most ghastly experience of my life," said Bunny-costumed Marilyn. "I felt the egg go wallop on the side of my face. It really hurt, and it ran all down my hair, over my outfit and into my cleavage."

The store decided to take no action against the man, but Miss Cole said: "I'd give anything to meet him again and throw eggs all over his bald head."

Both Playboy and the store denied they had hired the egg thrower.

First came the Ping-Pong tour, then President Nixon's announced trip to China. Now the Bamboo Curtain parts to reveal the Chinese influence in fashion—and in precious jewelry. Tiffany designed the diamond-paved dragon and diamond drop earrings to complement this high-collared slink of black crepe by Anne Klein for Designers' Aelange. The Chinese turnout points to the return of elegance and opulence—today's big fashion news.

the showings of spring and summer collections Thursday night with a resounding affirmation of delicate femininity.

Pants, yes, but not for evening wear, he said. Other designers had similar inclinations. When they didn't, they widened trouser legs to the fullness of skirts.

The novelties in the collections included low-shouldered coats with sleeves that were often cut in one piece with the body. Ruffles on boater scarves, dresses and sleeves flourished in the evening. Many designers placed them vertically to run the length of the arm. Pleats and lace added frothiness to the gowns.

As lengths settled on the knee for daytime wear, designers flared skirts, sometimes to a full circle. There were not many suits, but pleated skirts and blouses or shirtwaist dresses found a place in most collections.

These were on the whole more feminine but also more classical, indicating that designers looked for commercial security. As prices rose along with labor costs, buyers appeared to be fewer. Some of the lesser known fashion houses seemed to feel the pinch, and six of them canceled their showings.

A number of houses, following an agreement with textile firms to boost the industry, used the same fabrics. This gave a touch of monotony to their collections.

Valentino, Mila Schoen and a few others continued to use exclusive materials and prints. Valentino launched printed tulle for evening dresses, and Mila Schoen worked fine lace designs into hers. Both encrusted their double-faced wool coats with knitted yokes, waistlines and pockets.

For the evening, Valentino printed roses and flower sprays on light flowing dresses and wrapped ground-length veils of matching fabric on the models as a sort of cloak.

"For reasons of ecology," Capucci used natural material—bamboo and pebbles for belts, necklines and sleeve tops, raffia and even sackcloth for gowns.

Place cups in a shallow roasting pan (about 17 by 11 by 2 inches); pour boiling water (about 2 quarts) around the cups almost to height of custard. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a silver knife inserted in center comes out clean—about 30 minutes. Remove cups from water; cool on wire rack. Cover and chill. Serve in cups or loosen edges with a small spatula and turn out. Serve plain or with sliced sweetened strawberries, fresh or frozen. Makes 8 servings.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A camera sometimes can tell a story, create an impression and build a mood more effectively than any other theatrical medium. One of those occasions was Thursday night when the public broadcasting stations showed an unusual portrait of Lorraine Hansberry, the talented and perceptive playwright who died at age 34.

Robert Nemiroff's memoir of his late wife, called "To Be Young, Gifted and Black," was presented with great success as an off-Broadway production about three years ago. It was more powerful and effective as a television production partly because the performers were not limited to a stage background.

An artful interweaving of Miss Hansberry's writing—letters, scenes from plays—and remembered conversations were put together. The result was a moving and sometimes infuriating picture of what it is like to be a black maturing in a white-dominated society.

The structure of the program was sometimes a bit confusing. The play started as if it were an early rehearsal of a play with the actors around a table reading and referring to their scripts. A splendid, sympathetic cast moved off in a number of directions to show Lorraine Hansberry's career, her emotions and reactions, but it all led to her premature death—of cancer in 1965.

The part of the playwright as taken from time to time by all members of the cast, men and women, blacks and whites. Ruby Dee played her most of the time and gave the character a sense of pride in being black. The cast also included Claudia McNeil, Barbara Barrie, Lauren Jones, Al Freeman Jr., and Al Schneider.

Occasionally the transitions were abrupt and it was hard to follow the shift from excerpts from letters to scenes from plays—"A Raisin in the Sun" was her greatest success. Frequently, too, the background music was so loud that it dominated instead of underscored the words.

Over-all however, it was a fascinating play and, while painful, was a rare television treat.

The transition from such drama to "The Dean Martin Show" was too sharp to be considered. "Owen Marshall: Counselor-at-Law" seemed a better bet for a night cap. But even this—sleek, professional and commercial—seemed flat after the Hansberry piece.

ALICE L. PEDERSEN'S MARZIPAN COOKIES

Easy to make and the best of its kind.

1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 can (1/2 pound) almond paste
1 egg

On wax paper sift together flour, baking soda and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter, sugars and almond paste; beat in egg. Stir in sifted flour mixture. Chill until firm. To shape cookies: each time dip tablespoon into cold water, fill with dough and drop, 2 inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheet with rounded side up. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until lightly browned—8 to 10 minutes. With a wide spatula remove to wire rack to cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box. Makes 36.

Helen Help Us!

To Trap a Thief
(Or Anyway Discourage Him)
Vandals robbed and wrecked a neighbor's house. They drank the liquor cabinet dry, then went on a food-smearing, egg-throwing rampage. Loss? Into the thousands. To the block's peace of mind: catastrophic.

...Especially to my husband's, for our vacation trip was just around the corner.

Now Bob is a man of action. He doesn't just sit there and worry. He maps strategy. He diagrams. He shops. Prowler prevention became his biggest challenge since backyard bomb shelters. "What are you doing now, Honey?"

"If they open the back gate, they'll pull this rope that knocks down this bucket of cans, and triggers the siren on the fence. That'll discourage 'em!"

It sure discouraged our meter reader. He arrived during try-outs....Not to speak of the guy next door under whose bedroom window the siren made its screaming debut.

"Man, you pick the times!" he growled later. "I was putting on my pants and damn near broke my leg."

Next came the electric eye with activated porch lights at the drop of dusk. On dark days they never flicked off.

"Don't touch that switch! We're automatic now."

"But dear, the electric bill..."

I was reared by a depression parent who equated unnecessary lights with mortal sin. Somehow you never outgrow the "Turn it off!" syndrome.

Then there was the sliding door caper.

At 2:30 a.m. our cat, who has a bladder problem, got fidgety. Bob's ears are tuned to burglars; he doesn't hear cats. I'm the one!

"What's the big slowdown?" I implied Sebastian, flicking a nervous tail as he paced. "Now just wait a minute here, until I pry up this sawed-off broom handle in the door track, and yank loose the stuck bolt, and check to see the screen won't give me an electric shock...And cross your legs if you're in a hurry."

Next day, after I'd spent ten minutes and three fingernails on a window I once had trouble keeping closed: "Pop dear, you've got this house so battered down that if a fire happened—and we were inside—we'd stay there!"

"Think positive. There won't be a fire."

"Couldn't we think positive about robbers?"

Ah yes, the laugh box: An inspired idea which would surely unnerve even experienced

"Think-ahead" prowlers. They might throw the main switch and deactivate conventional alarms, but when they trod on a wire that set off ungodly laughter? Well, it unnerved the Avon Lady!

Our family soon learned there were certain off-limit activities—like opening a window to shout at the mailman.

"You should have KNOWN—" mourned Bob as he did battery transplants on the wrecked alarm box.

"You should have TOLD me you put that Gaudawful screecher on the pane—or at least how to stop its screeching!"

Our vandal-conscious neighbors cheered Bob on, though they cooled a bit after the Affair of the Winged Intruder. They're great, involved human beings, you see, whose slogan is "If you're not part of the solution you're part of the problem." So when our garage window alarm tore a hole in the night they rushed forth, with and without bathrobes, brandishing assorted household head-bashers, to do the dastards in. Naturally, someone called the police...

There were those who thought the bird, in a pre-dawn funk, had knocked himself looney on the pane. Not I! Sudden piercing noise can all but stop the heart.

On Departure Day minus one: "Where are you going with the cameras and jewelry, Honey?" "Im locking them in the car trunk. Who'd think to look there?"

"Don't thieves sometimes steal cars left in garages?" "Not when I chain ours to the door!"

And so it was we embarked on vacation, secure in the knowledge that if thugs "hit" our house, it would hit back. As a final precaution, I taped a note to the refrigerator:

"Dear Unknown Visitors: If you open the freezer door, please push it tight closed because it doesn't swing shut by itself and everything will thaw and spoil. P.S. We're trusting you."

"Now THAT'S silly!" scoffed Bob.

"Honor among thieves," said I. "They'll RELATE to an uplift approach. Notice I didn't call them 'robbers.' Think good of a man and he'll be good, I always say."

High over the Rockies, Bob developed that familiar "Stop the plane I want to get off" look.

"Damn," he groaned. "Damn, damn, damn!"

"Did you lock the suitcase key in the suitcase again?" I asked.

"No."

"Then you stored the vacation-camera in the car trunk?"

"No. No. No—I was so busy

Exactly Right as Things Got Worse

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

After losing by 65 points to Indiana earlier this year, Notre Dame Coach Dick Phelps philosophized that things could be worse.

He was right. Things have gotten worse for his basketball team.

The fighting Irish have been beaten four of five times since that Indiana humiliation, including an 84-79 defeat to Duquesne Thursday night.

"We're not a good running club and we're not a good shooting club ... and, actually, there's not much else," says Phelps, who's not used to such ineptness.

Before he came to Notre Dame this season, Phelps didn't know what it was like to be a loser. He coached spectacular freshmen teams at Penn and led Fordham's exciting club into the NCAA playoffs last season.

He knew he wouldn't have a rose garden at Notre Dame, with the loss of seven players from last year's 21-8 squad. But, on the other hand, he didn't expect all the thorns. Two returning lettermen were lost to injury and a bright sophomore was bounced because of disciplinary problems.

Georgia Tech, one of the eight teams to beat Notre Dame this season, trimmed Tulsa 94-78 in Thursday night's action which included none of the ranked clubs.

Elsewhere, LaSalle topped American University 59-53 and Temple ripped St. John's, N.Y. 79-65 in a doubleheader at Philadelphia's Palestra; Utah turned back Utah State 66-59; Tulsa nipped Creighton 76-75 and St. Louis trounced Evansville 94-81; and Oral Roberts, the nation's leading scoring team, beat Idaho State 86-65.

Notre Dame had serious intentions of winning its fourth game in 11 this year before Duquesne cut off a late Irish rally. Lionel Billingsley scored 29 points for the Dukes, who won their 11th game in 12.

Steve Post scored 28 points and Bob "Peanut" Murphy had 22 to pace Georgia Tech over Tulsa; Steve Baruffi scored two field goals and made a key steal in the final minutes for LaSalle; Temple held St. John's to three field goals in the first 16 minutes to handily whipped the Redmen; John Dearman led Utah with 17 points and St. Louis shot a hot 54 per cent from the field while crushing outgunned Evansville.

Annual Pro Bowl Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As a pass catcher, Kenny Houston said he was lousy at first, just couldn't hang onto the ball.

And to make matters worse, quarterbacks still try to avoid throwing to him.

Of course, Houston isn't among the National Football League's leading receivers, though he scored more touchdowns than many players—four in 1971.

He's a safetyman for the Houston Oilers and the record-breaking four touchdowns on nine interceptions in the past season gave him nine touchdowns via pass thefts in his five pro seasons.

The 27-year-old Houston is here to play for the American

IOC Denies Report of Secret Meet

LAUSANNE, Switzerland

AP — Monique Berlioux, information director of the International Olympic Committee today formally denied a Vienna newspaper report that the 74-member body held a secret meeting in Luxembourg last December.

"This story is completely wrong," Mrs. Berlioux said. "The last IOC meeting was in Luxembourg last September and there was nothing secret about it. The press had given it full coverage. The next meeting is in Sapporo, Jan. 28."

This meeting will make the final decision on proposed disqualifications from next month's Sapporo Winter Olympics of leading entries accused of having violated the amateur code.

Local Teams in Win at Emmet

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Hope's Ladycats and Kittycats traveled to Emmet last night in a pair of games, and both contests should have been labeled "Mismatch."

Both Hope teams emptied their benches in the second half, while the Kittycats raised their record to 11-4 and the Ladycats now post an 8-7 mark.

As the first game started, Emmet took the tipoff, but that was about the only thing they won, as Hope rolled to an early 12-0 lead behind the shooting of Pogo Griffin and Gail East. With 3:15 left in the quarter, Emmet's Eagles hit their first point of the game on a free throw, but had to settle for that alone during the first period.

With the Kittycats taking the second period tip and leading 21-

1, the only thing to do was to keep scoring, and that they did. Griffin and East took turn hitting field goals and charity shots, until the buzzer sounded and the first half ended with Hope in a commanding 34-3 lead.

After a long halftime break both teams took to the court again, and immediately the same thing began to happen. Free throws by Griffin, East and Sue Henley widened the lead to 34 points, and after Barbie Watson hit a charity throw with 31 seconds left in the third stanza, Hope led, 43-11.

Now the reserves poured in, those not already in, and they too got into the act as both teams hit a nine point final quarter.

Field goals by Sherry Arnold and Kim Daffern put Hope in front by 36, and three more scattered shots within the next few minutes, lifted the Kittycats to their final 52-20, innihilation of Emmet.

East led Hope with 20 points, Griffin hit 18, Daffern got six, Henley popped in four, and Watson and Arnold chipped in two each.

Much credit must go to the starting defensive trio of Janice York, Melissa Reese, and Bonnie Roy, with some fine play by the rest of the squad too.

Minutes later, the Ladycats took the tipoff, scored first on a field goal by Dee Singleton, and went on to demolish the Eagles, 64-34, before a fairly good-sized crowd.

After Singleton's basket, Emmet tied the score, but seconds later, with 5:41 left in the first quarter, Hope took the lead for good when Singleton hit a free throw, followed it up with a field goal, and watched teammate Janet McCain put three straight two-pointers in for an 11-2 lead with 5:02 left.

With Singleton, McCain, and Gigi Gladney all hitting for the next five minutes, Hope took a comfortable 24-7 lead, with three quarters to go.

Taking the ball first again on the jump at midcourt, the Ladycats increased their lead practically every time they took the ball downcourt. Driving layups and outside shots by Singleton and McCain increased the lead to 38-14, with 2:31 left in the half.

Hope's last eight points of the first half, including Betty Rodden's field goal with 43 seconds left, lifted the Ladycats to an overwhelming 44-16, halftime cushion.

With everyone that started the game, going back in with the start of the game, the score had mounted to a 34 point, 50-16, lead with half of the period remaining. The quarter soon ended with the Ladycats holding a 57-21 lead, after Dorothy Stevenson came on in the last few minutes to hit three field goals.

Outscored in the last period, 13-7, it didn't really matter that late in the game. Most of the Hope reserves saw the action, with the scoring done by Stevenson and Carol Hobson.

Singleton led the Ladycats with 22 points, McCain put in 18, Stevenson hit 11, Gladney threw in six, Rodden contributed five, and Hobson made two.

Defensive starters Janice Hobson, Judy Reyenga, and Betty Ruth Honeycutt had no trouble in rebounding and getting the ball back upcourt early in the game, and credit must also be given to the reserves for their fine play.

Hope's Bobcats and Bobkittens host Nashville tonight in two games, starting at 6:30 p.m.

S. State and Ouachita Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern State College parlayed a sticky defense and strong rebounding into a 71-54 victory over Henderson State College in AIC basketball action Thursday night.

Al Flanagan led Southern State with 23 points, followed by Harry Hughes with 17.

The victory pushed State's record to 7-3 and dropped Henderson to 6-3.

In other AIC action, Ouachita defeated Arkansas College 98-66, State College whipped College of the Ozarks 93-84 and UA-Monticello rolled over Hendrix 98-84.

Harold Goffin scored 22 points to lead UAM to victory. (Close behind was Clarence Lanier with 21 points.)

Monticello jumped to a 20-7 lead in the first eight minutes and never trailed.

Basketbrawl?

IT'S A NONCONTACT sport but there has been more than a little contact on the basketball courts so far this season. In an NBA game between Milwaukee and Detroit, above, the Bucks' Bob Dandridge, left, and the Pistons' Terry Dischinger tangled, much to the consternation of referee Len Wirtz. Meanwhile, back in the college ranks, where character-building and not profit-making is supposed to reign, a lively scuffle broke out during a game between South Carolina and Marquette. Marquette's Jim Chones and Carolina's Danny Traylor are restrained, foreground, while Dick Moussa, upper left, is kept out of the main event.

Athlete Bitter With the AAU, to Run on His Own

By DAN BERGER

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Young says he'd like to compete in the 1972 Olympic Games but if he does, he'll run without wearing the patch of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

Young kicks off his 15th season in international track tonight when he takes on five other stars in a two-mile run at the Sunbelt Indoor Games. When he takes the track, he'll be representing George Young, teacher, Casa Grande, Ariz.

"I haven't worn the AAU patch in a year and I don't intend to wear it again," said Young.

"Their organization is so poor in so many ways and the athletes suffer because of it. It's forced the big names out of the sport and pushed track and field farther and farther into the background."

Young, the American record holder at two miles, said what the AAU needs most is a promoter.

"The AAU needs to be strengthened out. For years and years they've been promoting their organization instead of promoting the sport."

"For example, take this Sunbelt meet. Al Franken, the promoter who was barred by the AAU a few years ago, puts together a great meet that'll probably be a sellout."

"Why? Because he got one good race—Jim Ryun versus Kip Keino. That's what the people want to see."

Young said the AAU hasn't hindered his training or performances—"they just haven't helped a bit."

"The AAU has the international sanction and they keep that sanction because they perpetuate themselves."

Young said college and university athletes "get a lot of help from their organizations," the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the U.S. Track and Field Federation. But, he added, "athletes out of college don't have an organization concerned about their welfare."

The AAU, he said, "has been just barely surviving financially for many years." But even so, he said, "that feud between the NCAA and the AAU is still going on."

Young recommended that the USTFF, also a party to the dispute, and the AAU both be abolished and "start from scratch."

As for his own career, at 34 Young said he doesn't consider himself old but it's become harder to train. He and his wife have a 12-year-old son Joel and a 6-year-old daughter Pamela, and he's working on a doctorate in school administration while teaching full time at Central Arizona College.

He was a member of the 1960, 1964 and 1968 Olympic Games, winning a bronze medal in the steeplechase the last time out.

Archer, Owens Tied in Tucson Open

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Charles Owens drives the golf purists out of their minds.

He hits everything cross-handed, that is, with his left hand lower than his right when he grips the club. And he can't bend his left knee.

And he's also tied for the lead with George Archer after one round of the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open golf tournament. Each had a brilliant, seven-under-par 65 Thursday on the 7,305-yard Tucson National Golf Club course.

"They say you're supposed to have a firm left side in golf," Owens said. "Well, I've got the firmest left side in the world."

His knee was fused in an operation after he injured it in a practice jump while a member of the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C.

And about that cross-handed grip?

"My father was a green-skeeper at Winter Haven, Fla.," he said. "We lived on the course. When I started playing, I didn't have anyone to play with or anyone to teach me."

"I thought I was doing it right. I had two hands on the club just like everyone else."

Owens and Archer, who won the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open two weeks ago, held a one stroke lead over Lou Graham and defending champion J. C. Sneed, tied at 66.

The group at 67 included Bob by Nichols, Herb Hooper, Jack Montgomery, Bob Murphy, Jim Jamieson, Mike Morley and rookie Chuck Thorpe.

Dave Hill headed a group of a half dozen at 68 as the tournament press took advantage of the beautiful, warm weather to shoot exceptionally low scores.

Pat Lee Trevino, just named the Associated Press Athlete of the Year and the man picked to win this tournament, had his putting woes and was far back in the field at 71.

Owens lived in New York for 13 years, working much of that time as a sporting goods salesman. He's 34 and just joined the pro tour late in 1970 after three years on the Negro tour.

He won the satellite Kemper-Ashville Open last year, but hasn't come close to winning a major event. He won only $11,476 last season.

He started on the back side first, matched one bogey with a birdie, then made his move with a string where he birdied four of five holes.

He also birdied the two par fives on the front side and stroked an iron to eight feet on the fifth hole.

The 6-foot-6 Archer, No. 4 on the money winning list last year and heading that slate with over $31,000 in just two weeks this season, spiced his round with two strings of three birdies each.

Racing All America Team

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) —

Three members of auto racing's 1971 All-American team have made the starting field for the Winston Western 500 and Bobby Allison hoped to make it four as time trials continued today.

Allison, stock car racing's No. 2 money winner last year, stood by helplessly Thursday as A. J. Foyt, Richard Petty and Mark Donohue grabbed the first three spots in Sunday's $100,000 lineup. "The shift linkage broke and I didn't get in a full lap," Allison said as he pulled his new Chevrolet into the garage area.

Foyt, the 1969 winner, won the pole in a Mercury at 119.633 miles per hour.

Petty was clocked at 169.389 m.p.h. in a Plymouth and will line up beside Foyt for the two-abreast start Sunday.

Pro Turns Play Into Laughter

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh Forgie, former professional badminton champion and All-Star amateur hockey player, has combined the two sports he once took seriously into eight minutes of laughter.

At 59, the round-faced, good-natured Forgie pads his slightly rotund tummy, decks himself out as a British major on safari, dons ice skates and puts a butterfly net and shuttlecock in hand for a little buffoonery in the Ice Capades.

He plays the fall guy to Shirley Marie, the Midwest badminton champion who qualified for the world amateur Uber Cup but turned professional before she could compete.

Forgie, who has educated his three children with the proceeds of his antics, rubbed elbows with the world's elite when badminton was in its heyday. Now an hour each night in a shabby dressing room—and what he calls the "vulgarity and the effeminate" in the show—is his life 43 weeks of the year.

The Canadian by birth, who maintains homes in Pelham, N.Y. and London, grew up on hockey in his hometown of Brantford, Ont. The receiving end of Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone call.

"Hockey was my first love," said Forgie. "I played with the Canadian All-Stars in Madison Square Garden in 1932, but I wasn't good enough to make the pros. I was too little."

So the 5-foot-7 athlete turned to badminton and reigned as the professional champion from 1941 through 1951.

"It was big during World War II," he said.

"I used to make a good living at teaching badminton. But when the market closed I had to find a new avenue. It was the theater."

Show business wasn't all that new to him. He had entertained troops during the war and played at the old Romy Theater in New York and the Palladium in London.

"We could have the best players in the world, but there's no image in it like there is in football and basketball. Now our best players are on the West Coast in phys ed departments where the guys have PhDs. And you know that a PhD can't be a champion. That takes eight hours a day, at least."

Even though Forgie isn't considered an athlete anymore, he still has to stay in shape. So he books exhibitions around the world when he's on vacation from the Ice Capades.

Nobelst Trojan of Them All

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jess Hill, recently retired as athletic director at the University of Southern California, was described as "the nobelst Trojan of them all" Thursday night at a testimonial dinner.

About 900 persons attended the dinner, honoring Hill on his 65th birthday, at the International Hotel.

Tributes included a tape recording of President Nixon's congratulations and a telegram from Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Hill, who has taken the job of commissioner of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, was athletic director at USC for 15 years. The Trojans won 29 national championships in various sports during that time.

Flyers Like Kate Smith

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Give Kate Smith an assist for the Philadelphia Flyers' victory Thursday night over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Miss Smith's rendition of "God Bless America" has replaced the National Anthem at Flyers' games 20 times in the last three years. The singer's record is 18 victories, one defeat and one tie.

The resonant tone of Miss Smith rang through the Spectrum arena before Thursday night's game with the Black Hawks. The Flyers won 3-2.

In the locker room after the game some Flyers sang "God Bless Miss Smith."

There may have been another off-the-ice factor in the Flyers' 13th victory of a struggling season. The team held a private meeting Wednesday. Not even coach Fred Shero was admitted.

"Each guy had his say," said captain Ed Van Impe. "We dedicated ourselves to finish as high as we can, get into the play-offs and go from there. We reached a mutual agreement to do our best and if we get beat, O.K., if we do our best."

Did Van Impe think the victory over the Black Hawks was an indication the meeting had accomplished something?

"Oh, God, no," he replied.

Long Plays Role of Hero

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Willie Long, who usually doesn't even get to play very much, got to play hero Thursday night.

Long, a 6-foot-8 rookie out of New Mexico, came off the bench to score 25 points and grab 14 rebounds as the Floridians defeated the Pittsburgh Condors 138-120.

In other American Basketball Association games, Kentucky edged Virginia 118-115, the New York Nets nipped Carolina 124-122 and Indiana squeaked by Memphis 109-107.

Long has spent most of his rookie season on the bench. The Floridians already have a capable veteran to play the pivot in Ira "The Large" Harge.

But Harge felt sick during the first quarter against Pittsburgh—and Long was ready to step in.

Virginia Coach Al Bianchi was understandably disappointed at his team's loss, which dropped the Squires eight games back of the Colonels in the ABA East and nullified the game Virginia had picked up the night before by whipping Kentucky 138-132 in Louisville.

"It's kinda discouraging," Bianchi sighed. "They played a great game last night, but we played super and beat 'em. Now last night doesn't mean a thing."

Rookie Julius Erving scored a career-high 40 points and added 21 rebounds for Carolina, and teammate Charlie Scott netted 20, but it wasn't enough.

Artis Gilmore, Kentucky's 7-2 rookie center, scored 35 points and grabbed 19 rebounds while forward Dan Issel tallied 37 points for the Colonels.

Two free throws by Bill Melchioni and a three point play by Tom Washington broke a 119-119 tie in the closing two minutes and sparked the Nets to victory. New York's Rick Barry and Carolina's Jim McDaniels each scored 30 points.

Indiana moved four games behind Utah in the ABA West race by defeating Memphis. The Pacers had trailed by as much as 16 points, but came back to score their sixth consecutive victory. Mel Daniels led Indiana with 24 points while Charlie Williams of Memphis topped all scorers with 30.

Connie Hawkins Has the Moves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Connie Hawkins has the kind of moves basketball fans love to watch. He also has the scoring ability opposing players aren't too crazy about.

The 6-foot-8 Phoenix Suns forward put on some of his best moves against the New York Knicks in a 130-109 Suns' victory in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

Hawkins scored 40 points, his best of the season, including 22 in the first half as the Suns ran up a 16 point lead, then extended it to 22 points at the end of the third quarter.

The Knicks, behind guard Walt Frazier, did produce a final period rally that pulled within 10 points, only to see their hopes disappear when Hawkins got seven points within 65 seconds.

Frazier led New York with 21 points while Dick Van Arsdale contributed 26 and Clem Haskins 21 to the Phoenix victory.

In the only other NBA game the Houston Rockets defeated the Cincinnati Royals 104-87.

Elvin Hayes scored 27 points and Calvin Murphy 22 both hitting heavily in the second half when a Cincinnati rally threatened the Rockets.

Hayes scored eight points in the Rockets' 14-point surge in the fourth period as they pulled away from an 82-all tie.

The loss broke the Royals' shot at five straight. Nate Archibald led Cincinnati with 27 points and 11 assists while teammate Sam Lacey had 19 points and 20 rebounds.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Which Method Best For Cooling Food?

Dear Dr. Lamb—Should food be left to cool at room temperature or should it be placed immediately in the refrigerator while still hot? We were taught that bacteria starts to form if not refrigerated immediately and this theory is scorned by a relative, who insists that food be cooled at room temperature and then refrigerated. I would really appreciate finding out who is right or wrong. She also says it is much harder on the refrigerator to put hot food in there, but I'd rather defrost often than throw away food at the prevailing prices.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is a Wall Street saying that the Bull gets a little, the Bear gets a little and the Hog gets nothing.

East was a hog. He decided to double four spades because he thought that South was defending not bidding to make.

He was right about that. When West opened the three of clubs there was a nice set for the taking. All East had to do was to take his ace of clubs; give his partner a club ruff and hope that his partner would underlead the ace of hearts. East would take his queen; give West another club ruff; get in with the king of hearts and lead the five of diamonds.

The defense would have five tricks in and would be sure of a sixth. Furthermore, if South made the mistake of playing a low diamond West would be able to give East a ruff and be set four tricks.

All this nice profit was waiting there for a modest individual but East was a hog. He wanted to slaughter South and decided to go after a cross-ruff.

East returned his five of diamonds.

South didn't say thank you but he was mighty happy. He went right up with the ace of diamonds; drew trumps and proceeded to discard one heart on dummy's fourth club. Then he spread his hand conceding one heart and one diamond.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Pure ocean water has a blue color because salt water does not absorb the blue rays of sunlight as it does the red rays. The World Almanac says that the Mediterranean is quite blue because there are few large rivers carrying impurities into it, and there is a constant stream of salt water entering it from the Atlantic.

He proved himself as "Little" Stevie Wonder. Minus the Little, he's still around. Now 21, Stevie never really left the music scene. He's been doing concerts and performing all over the country and abroad. He has consistently made the top 10 list with his singles and has done about nine or 10 albums, about one a year.

So, at 21, Stevie is a 10-year veteran of the music business. And the staying power can be attributed to that ever-elusive term, "Soul."

"Take Aretha Franklin, for instance," says Stevie, "that's pure soul. The feelings come out minus the bull. Exactly how she feels comes out in the melody. People who have it are Ray Charles, Jimi Hendrix, Sly and Frank Sinatra." Frank Sinatra? "Yes. Especially his song, 'It Was a Very Good Year.' His emotions were delivered through those lyrics. You get the feeling that he was singing about his life."

Recently Stevie took part in a special benefit with John and Yoko at Ann Arbor, Mich. The benefit was for John Sinclair, who was arrested and given a 10-year sentence for possession of marijuana. Sinclair possessed two joints. "I don't smoke pot," admitted Stevie, "but a 10-year sentence for smoking seems ridiculous." So he performed for the estimated 15,000 young people who paid $3 each to attend the rally. Three days after the rally, the Michigan State Supreme Court gave Sinclair his freedom. Temporarily, Sinclair, who served 27 months, is out on appeal.

Stevie did a five-day stint at the Apollo, something he's been doing at the beginning of each year for awhile. "I do the Apollo every year because it's the first big place I appeared. I owe something to the people of that community. Many of them couldn't afford to see me at Madison Square Garden. It's my way of showing my appreciation," says Stevie Wonder.

A RETURN TO THE LAND WITH A LARGE FAMILY—The issues and causes growing from them about ecology and overpopulation have affected young students' thinking. When 85,000 junior and senior high school students were polled recently, some of the answers were quite surprising.

The views expressed by high school students in the latest National Institute of Student Opinion (NISO) poll, conducted by Scholastic magazine, indicated that the city with its noise, pollution and high crime rate wasn't attracting young people. When asked where they would like to live, only 14 per cent of the students chose a city, 19 per cent voted for a suburb, 32 per cent for a rural area and 15 per cent for a small town.

Concern for overpopulation appears to be minimal, according to the results. Only 3 per cent felt a one child family was the ideal, 41 per cent would prefer two children, and an overwhelming 56 per cent felt that a larger family of three or more children would be ideal.

STILL A WONDER—An 11-year-old black boy, blind since birth, thought about becoming a minister, an electrician, a teacher or maybe a musician. He decides on music and, strangely enough, he makes it. There he was, singing "Fingertips" to crowds of fans and out with an album, "12-Year-Old Genius."

He proved himself as "Little" Stevie Wonder. Minus the Little, he's still around. Now 21, Stevie never really left the music scene. He's been doing concerts and performing all over the country and abroad. He has consistently made the top 10 list with his singles and has done about nine or 10 albums, about one a year.

So, at 21, Stevie is a 10-year veteran of the music business. And the staying power can be attributed to that ever-elusive term, "Soul."

"Take Aretha Franklin, for instance," says Stevie, "that's pure soul. The feelings come out minus the bull. Exactly how she feels comes out in the melody. People who have it are Ray Charles, Jimi Hendrix, Sly and Frank Sinatra." Frank Sinatra? "Yes. Especially his song, 'It Was a Very Good Year.' His emotions were delivered through those lyrics. You get the feeling that he was singing about his life."

Recently Stevie took part in a special benefit with John and Yoko at Ann Arbor, Mich. The benefit was for John Sinclair, who was arrested and given a 10-year sentence for possession of marijuana. Sinclair possessed two joints. "I don't smoke pot," admitted Stevie, "but a 10-year sentence for smoking seems ridiculous." So he performed for the estimated 15,000 young people who paid $3 each to attend the rally. Three days after the rally, the Michigan State Supreme Court gave Sinclair his freedom. Temporarily, Sinclair, who served 27 months, is out on appeal.

MUST LABEL IODIDE SALT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is ordering salt manufacturers to indicate on the label the iodide content of all table salts.
Currently, iodized salt must be labeled as such, but non-iodized salt need not carry any reference to the chemical.
Iodide combats goiter and has been added to about half the nation's marketed salt for that purpose. In Canada, salt is required to contain the chemical.

Each evening when the television is turned on, we must decide which show to watch. In like manner, we must decide which religion to follow. And the only way to decide is by investigating all the alternatives and then selecting the one that best fulfills our needs.

Yes, we must investigate. We must look A D to the New Testament and the life and teachings of Jesus Christ. Then we must look B C to the Old Testament and the lives and teachings of the prophets. Afterwards, we must compare each side and reflect on what we have learned before we can decide between the traditional prophetic B C or the new, fulfilled A D.

Choosing a television show is a minor decision compared with choosing a religion and yet some people are more concerned with the television. Many parents don't care which church their children attend, but they spend much time deciding which shows they should be allowed to watch. After all, they don't want their youngsters to be wrongly influenced by some TV show but their religion makes little difference to them.

A D or B C? Which one for you?

Faith will overcome the most miserable circumstances
++ faith will light up your soul in the darkest night ++

Parachuting Hijacker Taken Into Custody, Charged

DENVER (AP) — A young, mustachioed man who hijacked a jetliner in Nevada, collected $50,000 ransom and then parachuted from the craft over the Colorado plains is awaiting action on a federal charge of air piracy.

U.S. marshals are expected to take custody of him today at the Logan County Hospital in Sterling, 90 miles northeast of Denver, and bring him here for a hearing on the charge.

Positive identification of the sky pirate still has not been made, although the FBI said he purchased a ticket for the hijacked Hughes Air West flight under the name John Shane.

Another mystery remained as to how the curly haired man made his exit from the DC9. Officials said the only door open when the plane landed at Denver's Stapleton International Airport Thursday was to a baggage compartment.

Claiming he had a bomb, the man commandeered the plane at Las Vegas' McCarran International Airport Thursday as it taxied down the runway for a flight to Reno.

Before allowing the 56 passengers and two stewardesses to deplane, he demanded and was given $50,000 in $10 and $20 bills, three parachutes and two crash helmets. He then directed pilot Don Burkhard of Seattle to fly to Denver.

At Reno, two Air Force F111 jets were ordered into the air at the request of the FBI and they tailed the DC9 as it headed east.

Over the plains near Sterling, the hijacker left the plane. The F111 kept the parachute in sight as it drifted toward the grassy farmland below, radioing his position to their home base at Nellis Air Force Base, Reno.

One of the military pilots, Lt. Col. Edward Satterfield, said he saw the man land in a plowed field.

"When he looked up and saw me, he threw a case up in the air like he was disgusted that he had been followed," Satterfield said.

FBI agents and Colorado State Patrol officers guided by directions from the F111s tracked footprints through mud and snow from a spot where they found a parachute and helmet.

Peter Blackburn, a 52-year-old farmer, said he saw two state policemen spot the man in a pile of weeds.

The man stood up, raised his hands, and was handcuffed without a struggle, Blackburn said.

FBI agent John Morley said the man complained of an injured leg and was taken to the hospital in Sterling. Dr. John Naugle said he had suffered a sprained left wrist, a sprained left ankle and a slight cut on the left forearm.

He was held overnight under guard.

Seeks More Power to Fight Drugs

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, asking Congress for more power to combat narcotics abuse, says he will soon begin "a major new program to drive drug traffickers and pushers off the streets of America."

This will involve a national network of "investigative and prosecutive units, utilizing special grand juries established under the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970, to assist state and local agencies in detecting, arresting and convicting those who would profit from the misery of others," he said Thursday.

The United States also "will continue to press for a strong collective effort by nations throughout the world to eliminate drugs at their source," Nixon said in the written version of his State of the Union address.

"And we will intensify the worldwide attack on drug smugglers and all who protect them ... We will also step up our program to curb illicit drug traffic at our borders and within our country," Nixon added.

Renewing a request he made last year, Nixon urged Congress to give the status of law to the special Drug Abuse Prevention Office which he created through executive order. Legislation doing that is expected to be passed by Congress this year, although precise money figures have not been determined by the legislators.

A bill passed by the Senate last year, 92 to 0, would mount a $1.5-billion, five-year campaign against drug abuse. But the House public health subcommittee headed by Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., favors a $411-million, three-year program that would concentrate money on states with large numbers of addicts.

The congressional controversy also extends to governmental organization, since the Senate bill would create a new national institute on drug abuse. Rogers calls that a premature approach.

His subcommittee's bill would provide that all federal medical facilities including 30 clinics and eight Public Health Service hospitals would be used in areas of high addiction.

The House version also would use the network of community mental-health centers in treatment of drug addicts.

Bumpers' Son Fined $26

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Democrat reported Thursday that Brent Bumpers, 19, son of Gov. Dale Bumpers had been fined $26 and costs in Booneville Municipal Court on a charge of drunkenness.

The article said the case was handled Wednesday before Judge B. F. Donathan, who reduced the charge from driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The charge dates back to Dec. 29 when a car driven by the boy ran off a road and knocked down two guard posts, the newspaper reported.

BAD MARKS for Better Business Bureau came from Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal. The New York Democrat charges the bureau with conflict of interest and putting consumer welfare far behind business interests.

Bethel To Hear New Minister Sunday

No other christian organization experiences a more absolute form of ministerial itinerancy than does the Methodist church. More frequently of the three ministers charged with the religious welfare, in varying degrees, of a church congregation, pastor, presiding elder, and bishop, the pastor is usually charged in appointments.

For the Prescott District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, however, the situation differs. The contemporary annual conference relieved the Rev. H.H. Scott of the presiding elder's post and sent a young man to the district who is quite new to everyone. He is the Rev. W.C. Montague of Little Rock. Dr. Montague will preach two sermons according to schedule; the 10:50 a.m. hour and the 6:30 p.m. hour should be very enjoyable to all present. After the morning service, a fellowship dinner will be served at the parish house for the official church family.

The business session of the Quarterly Conference will be held on Monday evening at 7:00 O'clock.

The public is invited to both worship session, according to Dr. W.G. Wynn, church pastor.

The Woods Sisters of Malvern will sing at the New Bethel Baptist Church, Sunday, January 23, at 2:30 p.m. This program is being sponsored by Joseph Stuart. The public is invited to attend. Rev. W.M. Carroll, Pastor.

3-Time Lifer Gets College Degree

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — William G. Heirens, serving three consecutive life sentences for murders he committed 26 years ago, soon will become the first person in Illinois history to earn a college degree while a prison inmate.

Heirens was a 17-year-old college student in 1946 when he was convicted of the dismemberment slaying of 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan after kidnapping her and of earlier slayings of Frances Brown and Josephine Ross, all of Chicago.

He has been confined to Stateville Penitentiary since and is unlikely to ever be released.

Heirens has been measured for a new suit he'll wear to graduation ceremonies under the traditional cap and gown. He is working on his last college term paper and will take his last college examination on Sunday.

He will leave the prison's honor farm, where he has been since last June, and take a short trip to Lewis College to receive his degree Feb. 6.

Heirens has completed 197 semester hours of college credit through television courses, extension courses and classes conducted at the prison by visiting professors.

"He probably has more college credits than anyone except a candidate for a doctor of philosophy degree," said Terence Bergin, superintendent of education at the prison. Heirens completed his first correspondence course in 1962 from the University of Illinois. Majoring in liberal arts, Heirens' studies included philosophy, logic, math, sociology, horticulture, calculus, business accounting, social psychology, journalism, creative writing, business law, cultural anthropology and German.

Prison authorities said he has made top grades in all his studies.

"This has helped me from living a vegetable existence, which is often the case when men are confined in prison for a long time," Heirens said.

"My sole purpose was to provide a challenge for myself."

Democrats Are Lectured on Partisan Politics

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in an artful keynote to his re-election campaign, has lectured the Democrats on partisanship while offering the nation a catalogue of his own political values.

He took his text, ironically, from former President Harry S. Truman, whose call for cooperation from a Republican Congress later gave way to a re-election campaign in which that same Congress was the chief target.

Something like that could happen in 1972. The 92nd Congress is dominated by Democrats. Nixon's Democratic challenger is likely to come from the Senate. And there is no chance Congress will enact in this campaign year all the things Nixon said it should.

There were few new proposals in his State of the Union message Thursday, but Nixon called for enactment of more than 90 leftover administration proposals.

He guaranteed a major, time-consuming Senate battle by recommending an increase of perhaps $3.7 billion in defense spending.

And he said he would propose later in the year a program to overhaul the financing of public schools and ease the burden on property taxpayers.

That would be a major political lure, and even Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he doubted such a measure could pass Congress this year.

Nixon is known to favor the idea of a value-added tax, a form of national sales tax, to ease the property-tax burden. Liberal Democrats are certain to resist such a proposal.

Nixon has said he will not make public partisan appearances before Aug. 21, when the Republican National Convention begins. By that time, proxy campaigners could be casting him as the President who tried to do something about soaring property taxes only to be blocked by an opposition Congress.

Nixon, however, said he was not presenting Congress with proposals "which have attractive labels but no hope of passage." He said he was proposing vital programs Congress could handle, and added that they should be beyond partisan ship.

"Under the pressures of an election year, it would be easy to look upon the legislative program merely as a political device and not as a serious agenda," he said. "We must resist this temptation ..."

"Let us join in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or any person."

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., in praising Nixon, may have offered the best summation of the President's political thrust:

"The President put the cat on the back of the Democratic-led Congress."

The 15,000-word written message Nixon delivered along with his speech is likely to provide Republican campaigners with a sort of advance GOP platform.

It recites administration achievements, programs and proposals for the young, the old, the black, for women, farmers, labor, the jobless.

Nixon began his televised speech by recalling that 25 years ago he sat as a freshman congressman from California and heard Truman call on Congress to put aside partisan considerations for the national interest.

It was Jan. 6, 1947, and what Truman said was this:

"Men who differ can still work together sincerely for the common good. We shall be risking the nation's safety and destroying our opportunities for progress if we do not settle any disagreements in this spirit, without thought of partisan advantage."

For Truman, the next campaign was a year away, in 1948. He spent it whistle-stopping the nation, denouncing "that do-nothing, 80th Republican Congress." He won in an upset.

For Nixon, the campaign year is here.

World Below in Hockey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
While all the attention is focused on the top of the National Hockey League standings, Buffalo and Vancouver have their own world down below.

Don Luce scored a first-period goal Thursday night, giving the Sabres a 1-0 victory over the Canucks and moving them into sixth place in the East Division of the NHL. The loss dropped the Canucks into the basement spot.

In the other NHL contest the Philadelphia Flyers defeated the Chicago Black Hawks 3-2. Luce's goal was a two-rebound shot after a long attempt by Al Hamilton and a short one by Danny Lawson, both of which were blocked by Vancouver goalie Dunc Wilson.

The score at 6:15 of the first stanza by the Buffalo forward gave goalie Roger Crozier what he needed to work on for his second shutout of the season. Crozier had 29 saves.

Forward Bill Lesuk slapped in a goal in the third period to give the Flyers only their fourth victory over the Black Hawks in the past 4½ years. Lesuk's goal followed Simon Nole's goal at 21 seconds of the final period which tied the score 2-2.

Bill Clement opened the scoring for Philadelphia but the Black Hawks' Bobby Hull scored his 34th goal of the season to tie it up, then Cliff Koroll put the Hawks ahead 2-1 in the second period setting up Nole's and Lesuk's game-winning goals.

Productivity of U.S. Economy Has Slowed

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — During the past few years the increase in productivity of the American economy has slowed markedly, causing many critics to claim that America is losing the skills that made it the foremost industrial nation.

Management is blamed for not being more innovative. Unions are accused of being obstructionist. Workers, some claim, do not apply themselves. Big business is charged with monopoly. Government regulation is said to be oppressive.

All these have been cited at one time or another for blocking productivity gains. There may be some truth in the claims.

Productivity has grown only 2.1 per cent a year in the past five years compared with a 20-year average of 3.

But rather than blaming any one element or seeking the answer in some indefinable change in the American character, others see the decline resulting more from a failure to understand the areas in which improvements can be made.

Productivity is improved by the more efficient use of men, money and machines. But as Gordon F. Bloom of the Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology notes, we have done this mainly on the basis of individual companies. Now we may have to do so on an industry basis.

The opportunities for improving productivity now lie in "the interfirm locus rather than the intrafirm area which until now has been the major sphere of productivity emphasis," he stated before a panel of the Conference Board.

Management, he said, has come to recognize that even though individual components of a total system are each working at top efficiency they will not necessarily generate maximum efficiency for the company as a whole.

One reason for this, he said, is that one facility within a company may improve its productivity at the expense of another. He cited as an example a company with one warehouse to serve a number of retail stores.

If the warehouse manager cut down on the frequency of store deliveries, prohibited all special orders and restricted hours for shipping to suit the convenience of the warehouse, he would raise tons shipped per manhour.

But, productivity at the store would suffer, as would the company itself.

Something of the same sort now is being done on the industry level, he suggested, with companies improving their productivity at the expense of each other but not for the good of the industry—or the country.

Managers "have ignored the effect of their action upon other units within the industry system," he told the panel. "The result is an appalling degree of waste within the system as a whole."

On Stock Dividends, Capital Gains, Losses

By RAY DE CRANE

Stock market investors have two areas of concern on their income tax return. They are accounting for dividends and reporting capital gains and losses.

The first $100 in dividends received from qualifying domestic corporations is exempt from tax. On joint returns, a husband and wife may be entitled to a dividend exclusion of up to $200 if each holds stock paying $100 or more in dividends, or if they jointly own stock which distributed $200 or more in cash dividends.

Except in Community Property states, neither spouse may claim any part of the $100 exclusion not claimed by the other. If, for example, the wife received $40 in dividends on her stockholdings and the husband received $300 in dividends on stock held in his own name, their combined exclusion would be only $140.

The same couple living in a Community Property state would receive a dividend exclusion of $200 on their joint return, or $100 each on their separate returns. The dividends on stock purchases with community income are considered as being shared equally by the spouses.

Corporations whose dividends would not be entitled to the exclusion include foreign corporations, real estate investment trusts and regulated investment companies. Should a portion of the dividends from a regulated investment company be entitled to the exclusion, the company will notify you of this portion in their annual report to you.

Mutual funds frequently will include in their gross dividend figure, some capital gain dividends and some nontaxable distributions. Report first the gross dividends received and then deduct both the capital gain dividends and the nontaxable distributions. The balance remaining is subject to the $100 exclusion.

The capital gain dividends are then reported as income at 50 per cent of their total. The nontaxable distributions—actually a partial return of your own capital—are used to reduce the cost basis of your holdings.

The gain, or loss, on any securities sold during 1971 must be reported on Schedule D.

First separate your transactions into short-term or long-term. A short-term transaction results when the securities are sold within six months of purchase. The holding period must be at least six months and one day to qualify as a long-term transaction.

First offset your short-term gains and losses
